Women are the center, the heart, of the family. We are natural caretakers and nurturers, but oftentimes it is easy to lose ourselves in that role, and the price we pay for this is high. We are emotional beings, after all, and our decisions are often made because of what we feel. That's why we need to talk about our emotions more then ever, and not numb ourselves with shopping, over exercising, or overeating. This is why creating a place for poetry in life is so important. Poetry can be a remedy in times when life is challenging. Sometimes I felt it might even have saved my life. Each time I reached out and read or wrote a poem myself, my mood would change. I was able to understand something I had not seen before and I was able to move forward with a positive attitude. Poems are ambassadors from other people's struggles, and knowing this helps us to feel less isolated. We all struggle at one time or another, but the truth is poetry reminds us that we never completely struggle alone.
